

ICBA RECOGNIZES COMMUNITY STATE BANK FOR 50 YEARS OF MEMBERSHIP

AUGUST 1st, 2012

WASHINGTON D.C. – The Independent community Bankers of America (ICBA) recognizes Community State Bank in Union Grove, Wisconsin, for reaching an important milestone as an ICBA member. This marks Community State Bank’s 50th year as a member of the ICBA, the only national trade association dedicated exclusively to serving the needs of the nation’s more than 7,000 community banks.

“ICBA is fortunate to have Community State Bank as a member of the association for 50 years,” said Camden R. Fine, ICBA president and CEO. “Community banks such as Community State Bank are relationship bankers that are passionately committed to serving the needs of their local customers and communities. It’s community banks like theirs that drive economic stability and prosperity on Main Street and make their communities better places to work and live.”

Community banks reinvest in their communities every day because they are an integral part of the economic, financial and civic fabric of thousands of towns and cities across America. They are common-sense lenders that do right by their customers and exist solely to serve the needs of their local customers and communities.

“As an ICBA member, Community State Bank is proud to be part of a nationwide network of community banks that advocate on behalf of this industry and its valued customers,” said Steve Bell, president and CEO of Community State Bank. “Community State Bank looks forward to continuing its role with ICBA to help strengthen and preserve the community banking industry so that consumers across the nation can experience the difference of working with a local community bank for years to come.”

Of the more than 7,000 community banks across the country, nearly 5,000 are ICBA members. Representing more than 24,000 locations nationwide and employing nearly 300,000 Americans, ICBA members hold more than $1.2 trillion in assets, $1 trillion in deposits and nearly $750 billion in loans to consumers, small businesses and the agricultural community.
